

2025 Lymphatic Forum Travel Awards

The travel awards are made possible by a generous grant from the Salice Family Foundation.

The Lymphatic Education & Research Network (LE&RN) is offering Travel Awards (20 total of $500 US currency) for early investigators who are LE&RN members (PhD students, graduate students, medical students and postdocs) to defray registration and travel costs associated with attending the Lymphatic Forum. In addition, four Best Poster Presentation awards (one $500 US currency and three $250 US currency) will be given to the top posters presented. Travel awards are NOT available for local participants (defined as “residing within a 25-mile radius of the meeting venue”) to attend the conference.

The North American Vascular Biology Organization (NAVBO) will provide additional travel awards, also valued at $500 each to its Trainee Members.

If you are not a member of either society, consider joining LE&RN or NAVBO to be eligible for a trainee award.

Eligibility Criteria

Deadline is March 15

To apply, prospective candidates must:

- be actively enrolled in a doctoral program, graduate program, residency or accredited program of postdoctoral graduate education in the biomedical sciences
- provide a blog post summarizing the meeting and their experience at the event
- be a member of LE&RN or NAVBO
- reside more than 25 miles from the conference

Application Process

To be considered for a Travel Award, the following information is required:

- Submit an abstract to the Lymphatic Forum 2025
- Indicate that you are applying for this award within the online abstract submission form (indicated the appropriate society affiliation; you can choose both if you are a member of both societies)
- Upload your Curriculum Vitae (CV) or National Institutes of Health biographical sketch within the abstract submission form